Privacy

This site is designed for both members and non-members of the NUJ in continental Europe. Some areas of the site are only accessible to NUJ members and authorised individuals who must register to use the site.

Any personal information collected on this site is for the purposes of ensuring the better running of the site, and assisting clerical procedures relating to NUJ CEC activities only. These clerical procedures may include statistical analysis.

No personal information collected on this site is passed to third parties without the explicit permission of the individual who supplied the information.

Cookies set by this site are for the purpose of registering NUJ members and other authorised persons in order to facilitate access to password-protected areas and to provide extra functionality.

Links

The inclusion of any links on this site should not be interpreted as an endorsement of the organisation connected with that site or any views expressed on that site.

We make every effort to check that the links included in this site are current and that the aims, programmes and operations of the organisations linked to are consistent with the objectives of this site and the National Union of Journalists.

We do not guarantee the quality of the information contained on web pages external to this site, nor do we make any claims regarding the accuracy or timeliness of such information, or the honesty, reliability or competence of the organisations represented in or by those web pages.

Please let us know if links do not work or if the organisations linked to in any way fail to meet the high standards embodied in the NUJ Code of Conduct. If our investigation supports your claims, the links in question will be removed. If you find any material on this site that is defamatory, discriminatory, breaches copyright agreements or is otherwise illegal, please bring it to our attention so that it too can be removed.
